

How to get there

By air

Nearest international airports:

- Schiphol Airport (Amsterdam), the Netherlands, 130 kilometers
- Düsseldorf International Airport, Germany, 110 kilometers
- Airport Weeze, Germany, 50 kilometers
- Brussels Airport (Zaventem), Belgium, 200 kilometers

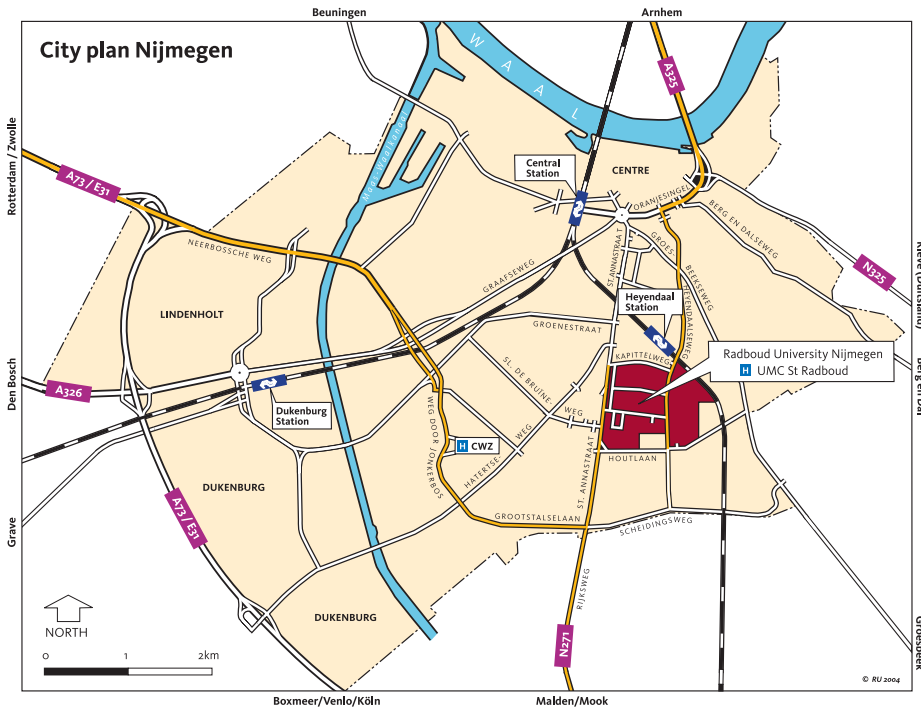

From Schiphol Airport (Amsterdam) trains leave every 10 to 15 minutes for Utrecht or Duivendrecht Station, where there are connecting trains to Nijmegen.

By train

Nijmegen is easily accessible by train from all major cities in the Netherlands. Train information is given on the yellow time tables located in station halls, on train platforms as well as on the internet: www.ns.nl.

By bus

Local buses stop on campus on the Philips van Leydenlaan, the Heyendaalseweg, the Kapittelweg and Erasmuslaan. There are several connections from Nijmegen Central Station to these bus stops. Regional buses from Wijchen, Venlo, Grave, Cuijk and Grave stop on campus.

By car

Coming from Amsterdam/Utrecht on the A2, take the A50, direction Nijmegen. At the intersection of the A50 and A15, follow signs 's-Hertogenbosch-Nijmegen (A50), then take the A73 to Nijmegen.

Coming from Rotterdam, follow the A15 until the Nijmegen (A50) turn-off, then take the A73 to Nijmegen.

From the south (Belgium), the Paris-Brussels-Antwerp-Breda motorway leads to Nijmegen (via Tilburg and 's-Hertogenbosch).

Visitors coming from Scandinavia, Germany and Switzerland are advised to use the German motorways: A3/E35 (Oberhausen-Arnhem) and A57/E31 (Krefeld-Nijmegen).

The Radboud University Nijmegen and the University Medical Centre St Radboud are signposted as 'Universiteit', 'H Ziekenhuizen' and 'UMC Radboud' on all major routes into Nijmegen (see city plan).

Signpost Radboud University Nijmegen

Production: Communications Office (March 2008)
 Photography: Dick van Aalst, Petra Appelhof, Bert Beelen,
 Erik van 't Hullenaar, Gerard Verschooten
 Graphic Design: Nies en Partners bno, Nijmegen
 Printing: Steunpunt Print en Druk